A former German Army radar set (see Annexes) was in a partially floded meadow 800 meters southeast of the railroad bridge northeast of Brueck (N 53/Z 41). The area was easy to survey. No other radar sets were observed. [redacted] 25X1

25X1 [redacted] the station was established in 1943/1944 and has not been occupied or used by the Soviets. No Soviet guard detail, occupation or motor vehicles were seen in the settlement.

25X1 [redacted] Comment:

The report [redacted] 25X1 confirmed the location and structure of the set as well as the statement that the set was not used or guarded. According to this report, it is a set of German make, similar to the "Jagdschloss" radar. The width of the antenna system and the height of the set described are smaller than those of the "Jagdschloss" set, having an antenna system 24 meters wide and 5 meters high, the total height being 12 meters. The reported set is possibly of the "Jagdhütte" type. [redacted] 25X1

25X1 [redacted] the set is not in operation.
